If you're running 340/360 heads, the best intake is probably the Edelbrock Performer RPM (don't run it with 318 heads though). I really interesting option would be the single plane 2-bbl intake manifold that Mopar put on the 273 and some early 318. I think that with porting and Extrude Honing this manifold could be made to flow pretty well.

i dont get who is wanting to put 318 heads on a 360. he has a rebuilt 360 and you have a 318. i wouldnt put on 318 heads because the port runners are smaller. you may gain some low end torque, but you will choke the upper end. as for that other guy, running 11:1 cr with a stock cam is kinda dumb. the higher cr builds higher cylinder pressure.

There's nothing at all wrong with 340/360 heads on a 318, and if you want to make much more than 300 HP they're a great place to start. 340/360 heads have a larger combustion chamber volume than 318 heads which will reduce compression ratio. BUT combustion chamber volume can be reduced by skimming the heads.
