Query Studio User Guide Smith

You might see where this is getting at. Your application connects with ARITHABORT OFF, but when you run the query in SSMS, ARITHABORT is ON and thus you will not reuse the cache entry that the application uses, but SQL Server will compile the procedure anew, sniffing your current parameter values, and you may get a different plan than from the application.

Stardog extends SPARQL for path queries which can be used to find paths between two nodes in a graph. Path queries are similar to SPARQL property paths that recursively traverse a graph and find two nodes connected via a complex path of edges. But SPARQL property paths only return the start and end nodes of a path.

The first main roadblock is that you can only deploy to a SharePoint Integrated instance. Even though the PowerShell scripts are right there for you to edit, the source content is all explicitly called out and any potential alterations to force a deployment to a Native mode instance will involve a great deal of time editing and debugging.
